TWO "HULA GIRLS"?

We see that Monrovia Nursery Company of Azusa, California is advertising "Hula Girl" as Hibiscus Introductions - Now available. Their "Hula Girl" is described as large, single, vibrant yellow with red throat. 'Taint the same as the "Hula Girl" in our nomenclature.

It would seem that now we have two different bloom varieties with the name of "Hula Girl". This is one of the things the AHS wishes to avoid. Monrovia is a member of the AHS and has two Nomenclature Lists in their possession.

It would seem that one of three things happened:

1. They purchased a yellow single and the tag got lost so they named it what they thought it was.
2. They didn't take the time to check the nomenclature lists.
3. They just don't care.
